Lance,

I know you must be having a tough week, the pressure must be unbearable. I'm writing you to ask you to stay the course, don't think about taking the easy way out and let's work through this as a community. There are more people who believe in you than those who don't.

What are the chances that the events and action of one's youth - no matter how unpleasant they might be - could be used as a tool for positive change. Real meaningful change. I told you this before, there is a reason for this. I believe the reason is to help those who can't help themselves, the victims in our midst, those who are fearful and bullied on a daily basis.

I'm also asking the Board to stand firm and not buckle to the bullying you and your family are enduring. Don't give in because it's the easy thing to do. Remember the kid being bullied or contemplating suicide because those kids need us now more than ever. I pray you and the Board stay the course.

The path to greatness is never easy.

I believe in you.

Thank you for this email. Thank you for your guidance. Thank you for being a listening board and a wonderful friend. If we were all to be judged on the sins of our youth, who could stand.

Bill
